When Cain Velasquez fights, you know he's going to destroy you. And when Alistair Overeem fights, you know you're in trouble. These two have been wrecking each other for years, and they're back to do it all over again at UFC 149 on September 22. It's official: UFC President Dana White just announced that heavyweight champion Cain Velasquez will challenge Alistair Overeem for the title on Saturday night, and he gave us a brief rundown of how this fight is going to work. WOOOOO!!

Sounds good. Alistair is gonna wanna grapple, right? Why else would he just scrap with Brock Lesnar like that and then dive in and lock onto his thigh? Overeem just took a bad beating at UFC 146, and if this fight is anything like the first one, we can expect it to start out with a grappling match. After Overeem locks up the clinch against Velasquez, he can start grinding him in the ground in hopes of damaging the champ's title-winning knee. Dana White said that the two have already done something similar at the jiu-jitsu gym, but I 0cc13bf012 node version I'm working on an app where I have to use node 8.8 and the app node version is 6.10.2. I tried meteor update --release-version 1.0.0.2 and meteor update --release-version 1.0.0.2 --npm-package-deps-only and neither works. I'm getting the following error :

The following packages are likely to cause trouble: libc-client-dev libeio-dev Anybody have an idea? A: You need to use the --npm-package-deps-only flag as the npm module packages should not interfere with the Meteor packages. For me installing meteor on a fresh virtual environment with node 8.8 version and 6.10.2 version (node is installed to C:ode) works fine. Also using version 1.1.0.2 does not work for me. A: In my case the problem was that when I typed "npm update" and then tried to use "npm install", there was a bunch of nodejs packages that depended on nodejs v6.x and did not work with nodejs v8.x. So I just waited for them to update and it worked fine. So, I read a great article in the LA Times about a new type of peace gardens — called "Dig Down, Grow
